It was the second night in succession that the former Communist capital had been bombed. Three aircraft raided the city last night.

United Nations forces in the Pyongyang area were alerted tonight for a possible parachute drop by the Communists.

A security screen was thrown around the city. Guards were also warned of possible infiltration attacks by Chinese Communists.—Reuter.

Chinese Reds Drive On Last Coast

Tokyo, Dec. 1. Still swinging the main weight of their offensive on the left in Korea today, the Chinese Communists drove hard towards the east coast in an attempt to cut off the scattered United Nations forces to the northeast. In considerable strength, they have already chopped across the lines of communication of the scattered Anglo-American units battling ficrcely in the Chosin Reservoir area.

Their advance units were reported to be only 30 miles from the twin east coast towns of Hamhung and Hungnam.

The war-weary United Nations Eighth Army in the North-West, after pulling south of the Chongchon River, had temporarily lost control with most of the supply-starved enemy attacking their front.

COMMENT OF THE DAY Would It Solve

TF, from a distance, Mr Attlee's decision to suggest a meeting between himself and President Truman in Washington smacks of the dramatic, it is still necessary to view the action dispassionately. The announcement of his overture to Mr Truman was flavoured by the fact that almost simultaneously the United States President had given a press conference where he intimated that it might be necessary to consider using the atom bomb to bring about a cessation of the fighting in Korea. The timing of these two announcements automatically left the impression that it was President Truman's statements to the press which activated Mr Attlee into seeking sa personal conference in Washington with the chief executive of the United States. Actually, however, such a meeting had been advocated in a number of British national papers 24 hours before, the editorials arguing that it was essential in order to have that fullest understanding between . Britain and America as to the best way of dealing with the latest military crisis in Korea. Nor is the Korea problem exclusively in the minds either of the British editorial writers, Mr Attlee or President Truman. Worrying them are the implications of Russia's policy at this time; whether or not the Cremlin is intending to try and make force such a major battle ground that ussia will be in a position to strike at a relatively weak Western Europe Tences while Britain and the United tes are deeply committed in the Far the This aspect of the International ation is certain to receive as much ition when President Truman and fileo do meet as the immediate on of resolving the Korea crisis. blect, of the atom bomb and against the Chinese Communists in Korea has been more or less superimposed on the other preoccupations by virtue of Mr Truman's mention of it at his press conference. But it is one thing to make a passing. reference to the possibility of using the atom bomb; quite another to decide upon such a drastic action. It would require indisputable facts and arguments to convince the Western world that the atom bomb would achieve its intended purpose - bring the Korean conflict to an abrupt and satisfactory end and at the same time preserve the world from another global war. And unless the use of the atom bomb at this time can achieve precisely that, it is difficult in the extreme to find any justification' for bringing such a dangerous weapon into play. We do not waver in our belief that the United Nations must continue to stand firm in Korea, and that every normal means of bringing peace matically and politically. Wrap-around greatcoats, fuzzy as a poodle and light as the whipped cream clouds overhead, had flowing stoles and were helted, tightly at the waist.

A fascinating dress which Balmain insists is a "must" for comfortable travel had that looks like a skirt but was really trousers discreetly disguise.

Several long-sleeved, nencilthin woollen dresses had wraparound overskirts ideal for a quick change in effect.

Judging from this collection, Balmain's own personal rainbow borrows most of nature's hues. But black—the chie absence of all colour—is his unquestionable favourite. When it is not used alone, he twins it with emerald green, with pink, or yellow.

New York. THEN Louisa Schwarz, Who is director and co-owner with her husband of the Manhattan Baking and Cooking School, was a little girl in Potsdam, Germany, she was told that America was the land of opportunity, and that all its streets were paved with gold. At a kitchen fete, held recently to celebrate the school's 10th birthday, Mrs Schwarz, who, with her husband and son, had fled Hitler's Germany, edited only slightly her childhood's version.

deed the land of opportunity. There is gold, too, or its equivalent in good living, for anyone who is willing to plan and work to acquire it."

USING OPPORTUNITY

The celebration, held in the school's recently purchased building at 140 West 83rd Street, New York City, offered concrete evidence that Mrs Schwarz and her chemist husband had indeed planned and worked in their land of opportunity. The service swas characterised by a number of unusual features that had the somewhat party-hardened representatives of press and radio busily taking notes.

Typical hot and cold foods of 12 countries were served at the long table, an assortment of well over a hundred dishes, all prepared by the staff students of the school, and all taken from the school curriculum. Although many of the dishes were complicated both in proparation and embellishment, others owed their distinction chiefly to originality, and were simple enough to be copied by the most amateur of cooks.

FOR YOUR NOTEBOOK

Pitted green olives, for instance, had been drained of their brine and soaked for several days in an oil flavoured lightly with garlie and heavily with curry. Rice croquettes of quite ordinary appearance proved on opening to be moulded around a well-seasoned liver paste.

A honeydew melon, scooped and filled with fresh strawberries and balls of its own meat, was decorated on its outer surface with small clusters of strawberries and leaves attached by toothpicks, a flat mat of leaves and berries covering the top, and the whole designed to serve first as centrepiece, later as dessert.

Tiny fried meat balls were fastened by toothpicks, porcupine fashion, all over a head of red cabbage into the top of which a very thick lighted candle had been set, the idea being to hold the tidbit in the flame long enough to get it sizzling hot, fun for a children's party, on after-the-game huddle, or on evening's set-together.

The school's staff was assisted by additional waiters augmented by a group of husky young men who proudly identified themselves as "professionals" taught by the school under the GI Bill of Rights. Mrs Schwarz, who is proud of all her pupils, is perhaps just a bit pore partial to her GIs, almost 1100 of whom attend class daily.

- Outstanding among the latter is the Indian, Ayub Miah, who, solely on the strength of teaching, is making a success of his own restaurant, the "Bengal Gardens," and Jacques Moreno, the Chineso boy, with the half-French, helf-Spanish name, who as chof-cook on a. YOUR BIRTHDAY..

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 2

IF you are born today, your ambitions are high and you mave considerable personal cottrage. Since you love activity and excitement, no doubt you will be hoppiest if you live and work in the city. In fact, you are not to-become moody and unhappy if thrust into a quiet atmosphere. If you find yourself stuck in a routine job, get-out of it, even if it means a temporary sacrifice. You will never reach success or fame unless you set out on your own. You are critical and exacting with yourself. You want perfection or nothing. However, you have the ability to see the other fellow's side of almost any problem and don't insist that they follow your pattern of procedure. All you insist on, is that you don't have to struggle with them. Just let them go their own way and not interfere with your progress.

You have natural talent for both the written and spoken word. You would make a good lecturer-and since you enjoy travel, you might be one to visit the far places and then write or lecture about them. Newspaper work might appeal to you as a life career. You should be good at It!

Be careful in the selection of a marriage You are capable of great marital happiness. But you can have considerable heartbreak and discontent if you wed the wrong one. Preferably, select someone born under Leo or Aries although you can find with those born under Libra, pleasure' Aquartus or Gemini.

THE SENIOR LEAGUE DRIVE WILL HEAD INTO THE HOME WEEK-END THIS STRETCH

BY 'GRANDSTAND'

The Senior League drive for the Molthen Softball Trophy heads into the home stretch this week as South China and the Jaguars come to grips again to highlight a week-end of diamond thrills that is bound to attract fans to King's Park in droves.

Two other important senior tilts are on the card as the surging Overseas Chinese stage their return encounter against Frank Cleary's Americans, while St Joseph's take on the Morry Madcaps in a game that is bound to rekindle the old rivalry between these two explosive squads—a feud that started a few seasons back when the Madcaps challenged the supremacy of the Saints in their heyday.

Frankie Barros' Jaguars can well afford to view the current flag chase through rose coloured glasses, having completed their first round with nary a loss and a victory over South China, their nearest rivals, will practically cinch a berth in the pending playoffs.

THE LOST PUTT

There remains the question of Colonel Bogey's improved putting - from 30 strokes per round, they say, to 35. At which hole, flummoxed secretaries inquire, is he to take only one putt? Ask me another! A good scratch player rarely tukes more than 32 or 33 putts, sometimes as few as 26-but that, of course, is only because he misses the green with his second. My only suggestion on this one is to deem it unplayable under the new rule and forget about it.

(Special to the China Mail) Brisbane, Dec. 1.

Magnificent bowling by Wright and the three busy bees-Bedser, Brown Bailey—routed tralians on a pitch might easily have dubbed slow and easy the first day of the first Test Match.

English cricket was out from the groove bounced into a position which it is being eyed critically tonight.

From the first over of the day, when Moroney was dismissed off the fourth ball, the rather hopelessly.

the Brisbane pitch favoured war. the bowlers. We have no alibi to offer.

consider that Wright had by General MacArthur more to do with the Australian collapse than any other bowler. He spun the ball either way before. He gave Harvey, our top scorer, a particularly torrid time before lunch and was extraordinarily unlucky not to have claimed the left-hander's wicket on several occasions. Our Australian players quick tonight to acclaim his splendid performance. Bedser swung the ball disconcertingly late and the general mechanics of bis work so controlled that he gave no relief whatever to the batsmen, already nonplussed by Wright,
